“It’s clear that Americans want a less intrusive federal government, yet the FCC flies in the face of those who voted for change this past November, and goes behind Congress’ back to implement this job-killing regulation,” Bilirakis said. “This administration has taken control of health care, banks, student loans, the auto industry and now the Internet, and I’ll continue to fight this federal power grab in the 112th Congress.”